FOREWORD

The students of eight Regional Campuses whose activities are here recorded proudly present this Sixth Edition of their special Garnet And Black. Each individual campus community is developing its own traditions as a part of the Greater University as this history of another important year will show.

The aim of the Regional Campus System is to provide qualified students with the two first years of University training or terminal programs in such fields as Commercial Education and Nursing. The existence of Regional Campuses has made it possible for their students to enjoy a quality education at a reasonable price. Each campus combines the personal attention of the small college and the resources of a large University.

In the development of the Regional Campuses the University has been greatly assisted by Higher Education Commissions in each local area. Present Commission members are:

AIKEN: Robert Penland, Aiken, Chairman; Elden Jones, Salley; Charles F. Kneece, Monetta; W. P. Overbeck, Aiken; George Parks, North Augusta; Eugene Sawyer, Bath; G. L. Toole, III, Aiken; Raymond Warner, Aiken.

BEAUFORT: Marvin H. Dukes, Beaufort, Chairman; Mrs. Lee Bradbury, Beaufort; Marion D. Jones, Beaufort; Dr. H. Parker Jones, Beaufort; Jerry H. Reeves III, Bluffton.

University Ceremony and the Mace

The Mace is a symbolic object, representing in this instance the corporate entity and combined endeavors of the whole university community. Though adopted one hundred and sixty-six years after the University's founding, its import is timeless for it signifies equally the institution's past, present and future. Members of the Board of Trustees, students, alumni, faculty, administrative personnel—indeed everyone whose good will and service has contributed to the University's well-being, may see in the Mace concrete expression of their respect and affection for the institution.

The Mace is present on occasions of outstanding importance in the life of the University, such as degree-granting ceremonies. Placing the Mace on its stand is a signal that the proceedings are about to come to order; its retirement indicates that the exercises have been concluded.

Because of what it symbolizes, the Mace will be carried at Carolina in a separate special procession by a Mace-bearer, appointed by the President. President Jones, after consultation with the Board of Trustees, has delegated the honor of bearing the Mace to the President of the Student Body. Since the Mace, as previously noted, represents the total university community, the Mace-bearer is escorted by a member of the Faculty-in-Course (Secretary of the Faculty), of the Faculty Emeriti, of the Alumni (President of the Alumni Association), and of the Board of Trustees.

"University Ceremony and the Mace," from the program Special Convocation, The University of South Carolina, April 9, 1967.

The Making of a Mace

The Mace for The University of South Carolina was made by the distinguished silversmith and macemaker, Leslie Durbin of London, England. . . . Mr. Durbin's own brief description of the University's Mace may be of some interest.

"The head is made up of three concave doubleheaded hatchet shape wings which spring from a circular column. In the centers of these are mounted the seals of the University of South Carolina and of the State of South Carolina, and the Great Seal of the United States. These are gilt.

"Above and below this group are two centrally mounted shallow conical platforms. Arising from the top one is the State Tree, the foliage of which is stylistically rendered by a group of thirteen five-pointed stars. This is also gilded. On the lower platform appears the University's device 'Faithful Index to the Ambitions and Fortunes of the State.'

"The shaft, smooth and tapering, is decorated with eight Union Stars* and Jessamine flowers and terminated by a flaring handle or base with the initials S.R.G. 1870-1955 inset in silver gilt. Length 46½ inches. Weight 170.50 troy ounces. London, 1967.

*In 1788 the State of South Carolina was the eighth state to enter the Union.

"The Making of a Mace," from a lecture in the Guignard Memorial Series presented by Dr. George Curry. Initial presentation, April 6, 1967.
